

Patricia Baise, DNP, RN, NEA-BC, FAONL

Dr. Trish Baise is a transformational healthcare executive and nurse leader with extensive experience leading complex academic and integrated health systems through growth, operational transformation, workforce stabilization, and quality improvement. Throughout her career, Dr. Baise has built a reputation for advancing clinical excellence, strengthening nursing culture, and leading large-scale system transformation initiatives focused on quality, safety, workforce engagement, operational performance, and patient experience. Her leadership philosophy centers on collaboration, systems thinking, innovation, and empowering frontline teams to co-design sustainable solutions that improve care delivery and organizational performance. A recognized national speaker and thought leader, Dr. Baise is passionate about advancing nursing leadership, fostering innovation in rural healthcare, and developing the next generation of healthcare leaders. She currently serves as the Chief Nursing Executive for ECU Health in Greenville, NC.